Woodstock Man Is Killed on Thruway

D. K. Skinner Jr. Pinned Under Car As It Overturns After Striking Mall

A 27-year-old Woodstock man was killed and three persons injured in three vehicular mishaps during the weekend, a check by The Freeman this morning disclosed.

The fatality was Duane K. Skinner Jr., of Bearsville road, who reportedly died at the scene about 5 a. m. today when his 1950 sedan struck the center mall of the Thruway about a half mile north of the Saugerties interchange and turned over on its right side, pinning him underneath, Thruway state police reported.

Mr. Skinner was rushed by Layton Ambulance to the office of Dr. B. W. Gifford of Saugerties who pronounced him dead on arrival.

CORONER Michael Galletta withheld his verdict this morning pending an autopsy.

Troopers N. A. France and S. S. Pavlak said the car, traveling south, ran off the road into the center mall, continuing its forward motion for almost 200 feet before turning over. The car was "almost a total wreck."

Coroner Galletta said Mr. Skinner had taken his wife and small child to Albany to stay with his parents, Mrs. Skinner was reportedly expecting a child. He was on his way back to Woodstock at the time of the accident.

MR. SKINNER was a salesman for the Tobin Packing Co., Albany Division, assigned to the Kingston area. His father is manager of the Albany Country Club.

The body will be taken to Tebbets and Sons Funeral Home, Albany, for burial.

Angelo Staccio, Jr., 28, of Saugerties, suffered a slight concussion and Iona Russell, 47, of Saugerties, complained of head injuries in a two-car collision at 5:35 p. m. yesterday on Route 9W about two miles south of Saugerties, Kingston state police reported. Mr. Staccio was treated by a Saugerties physician.

TROOPER Raymond Kowalski said a 1940 sedan, operated by Raymond Benton, 51, of Mt. Marion, traveling south, was in collision with a 1955 coupe operated by Mr. Staccio, traveling north. Mrs. Russell was a passenger in the Benton vehicle, he said.

In a third vehicular accident, James H. Norman, 66, of Route 209, Ellenville, suffered a mild heart attack as his chest struck the steering wheel when his 1948 pickup truck was in collision with a 1953 sedan operated by Walter Patten, 39, of the Falls View Hotel, Ellenville, Trooper K. P. Sokol of the Ellenville station reported. He was treated at the Veterans Memorial Hospital, Ellenville. The collision occurred at the intersection of the Nevele and Fall View roads about half a mile south of Ellenville, at 2 p. m. Saturday. Roads were icy at the time, Trooper Sokol reported.

A NUMBER of area schools failed to open this morning as snow again covered the highways. Snow began falling about 5 a. m. and continued steadily through the morning.

SOME GOP VOTERS may cast ballots for Kefauver side

(By The Associated Press)
Speculation that some Republicans may vote in Minnesota's Democratic primary tomorrow has sparked added interest in this first direct contest between Adlai Stevenson and Sen. Estes Kefauver.

Orville Freeman, Minnesota's Democratic governor, said last night there are indications GOP voters may cast ballots for Kefauver in an effort to embarrass the state's Democratic leaders, who are backing Stevenson.

He said such a move would present "something of a problem" for the Stevenson camp, already pressed by a determined

Storm Toll Reaches 95 For East Second Snow Hits New York Hardest

(By The Associated Press)
Winter that refused to die today smothered the metropolitan New York area with a second snow blanket of the week-end. It brought the toll of storm dead to 95.

It prostrated the nation's largest city with a fall measuring a foot—the worst snowstorm in seven years.

NEW ENGLAND faced a similar prospect.

In New York and the wide area which supplies a large part of the city's working population trains stalled entirely or ran late and some businesses and schools didn't even open after the week-end.

La Guardia Airport was shut down. Even the usually reliable New York subways were halted in spots.

Wind-whipped drifts gripped autos on countless streets and highways.

A MONUMENTAL tieup choked the parkways that lace through Queens. During the night an estimated 3,000 motorists abandoned their snowbound cars on these roads and were given emergency shelter in hospitals, police stations and an armory.

The second storm struck West Virginia yesterday (Sunday) and swirled up the middle Atlantic coast during the night. Later heavy snow bore down on New England.

The storm followed hard on the heels of a blizzard that raked the northeast last Friday and (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

Urban Renewal, Public Housing Misunderstood, Yerry Declares

Providing adequate homes for families who would be replaced by an urban renewal program "is a prime requisite to the whole plan," George E. Yerry, Jr., chairman of the Kingston Housing Authority said in a statement released today.

The statement was made in answer to one originating at a meeting of the Rondout Area Business Men's Association March 13, which, Yerry said, "reveals a general misunderstanding of the problem of urban renewal and public housing."

THE CITY stands to lose, if proper action is not taken, he indicated, and he emphasized that "The appropriation for public housing in the sum of $1,500,000 is available until March 31, 1956."

"The Common Council has approved a resolution requesting $40,000 from the federal government to defray the expense of a preliminary plan for redevelopment of the sixth ward," he noted.

"The city is not obligated to repay the grant," he said, "if the plan is not adopted. If the plan is adopted, about one-third of the amount is an expense to the city. One of the requirements of the federal government, before they approve the request, is that the city will have under way, or will have contracted to provide a master plan for the entire city. It is estimated that such a master plan will cost the city about $50,000. This is in addition to the grant already requested."

"ANOTHER requirement of the federal government," he stressed, "and a responsibility of the City of Kingston, is to provide adequate homes for those families, who will be displaced, if an urban renewal program for the sixth ward is adopted."

The two essential items listed, he noted, "were explained in detail at a meeting of state, federal and local housing authorities held in the city court room and attended by the mayor, the aldermen and other city officials. The same items have been explained to other groups and to meetings of the downtown businessmen's association. Without a state-aided public housing unit and grant, the city of Kingston cannot proceed with such an ambitious undertaking."

"WITH a public housing program already approved by Commissioner Joseph P. McMurray, (Continued on Page 15, Col. 6)

End of Cyprus Terrorism Is Seen British Show Desire to Negotiate About Island's Future

Nicosia, Cyprus, March 19 (AP)—British authorities appeared confident today they can break the Cyprus terrorist movement within six months and pave the way for new negotiations on the island's future.

Brig. George H. Baker, chief of staff of the Mediterranean island's security force, told news-men his men had made a "significant break" into Eoka. This is the terrorist branch of the Union-with-Greece movement in this British colony.

"I won't say we've broken it (Eoka), but the developments have been significant," he added. As yet, however, there was no visible letup in the Eoka terror campaign. Greek Cypriots agree none of their countrymen would dare negotiate with the British for fear of death at the hands of the secret organization. But they admit elimination of Eoka would change things.

Violence that has gripped the island for the past year hit a new pitch after the British deported Archbishop Makarios. They sent the Greek Orthodox leader of the Union-with-Greece movement to the Seychelles Islands in the Indian Ocean 10 days ago.

Four masked men invaded a church outside Nicosia yesterday and gunned down a Greek Cypriot choir singer after calling him a traitor. The slayers got away, and the British ran into another impasse trying to track them down.

Eoka has killed 20 British servicemen in Cyprus since August and has slain at least 25 alleged Cypriot "traitors" in the past year.

Greek Cypriots have refused to cooperate with British authorities investigating the slayings. Both Baker and Gov. Sir John Harding say information is finally beginning to filter to the security forces. But thus far they have not been able to penetrate to the hard core of Eoka, estimated at less than 150 militants. Harding in a news conference outlined three objectives of his forces:

1. To end terrorism so Cypriots will feel free to negotiate with the British on the island's future.

2. To press an 86-million-dollar development program for social and economic reforms.

3. To re-examine the complex problem of Cyprus' political future. Britain has offered the island self-government if the British retain control of defense and foreign relations. The Greek Cypriots demand independence so they can unite with Greece.

The church shooting was the second fatality yesterday. British troops shot and killed a Turkish villager and wounded another in Pendakomo while searching for arms.

Congregations crowding the island's orthodox churches yesterday heard a pastoral letter calling on them to resist British rule. The letter said Britain was mistaken if she believed Makarios' exile would break the people's will.

East, Asia Need Arms From U.S.

Aggression Still Threat to Freedom

Washington, March 19 (AP)—President Eisenhower today asked Congress to vote $4,859,975,000 for foreign aid, with $1,640,000,000 in military assistance earmarked for the Middle East and Asia.

"Serious risk of aggression still exists" in the areas, he said.

ALONG WITH his request for a big increase in appropriations, Eisenhower asked for new flexibility in administration of the program. Particularly he asked for power to make commitments up to 10 years.

That feature, as well as the money increase, promised a hot fight in Congress.

In a special message, Eisenhower told the lawmakers: "We cannot now falter in our quest for peace."

EISENHOWER said the need for the mutual security program he outlined is urgent because:

1. "There are still nations that are eager to strive with us for peace and freedom but, without our help, lack the means of doing so."

2. "There are still forces hostile to freedom that compel the free world to maintain adequate and coordinated military power to deter aggression."

3. "There are still peoples who aspire to sustain their freedom but confront economic obstacles that are beyond their capabilities of surmounting alone."

Eisenhower said "significant testimony to the success of our mutual security programs appears in the new turns and developments of Soviet policy."

ALTHOUGH he said the new Russian maneuvering is still developing, "we must . . . assume (Continued on Page 15, Col. 7)

Brush Plant Going To Saugerties

Dixon & Rippel, Inc., manufacturers of special lines of industrial brushes, will move its plant from Kingston to Saugerties, Henry H. Parker, president of the firm said today.

The company on Friday purchased a building on First street, Saugerties, from Ernest E. Schirmer and Robert Carnright, owners. Formerly owned by the Saugerties Manufacturing Company, the premises was recently occupied by Schoen Publishing Company. The building is a two story brick building with a new one story addition at the rear. Parker said the plant would be moved from Kingston before June 30.

"We are celebrating the 100th anniversary of the business this year," Parker said. "The business was established in 1856 in Newark, N. J., where it was operated until 1942 when it was moved to Kingston," Parker said. Established by Dixon & Rippel, the business was purchased by Mr. Parker a number of years ago. The company presently occupies rented quarters in the former "Prince Street Foundry" building at 479 Hasbrouck avenue and employs approximately 10 skilled brush makers.

Parker said the move to Saugerties was being made because of the need for additional floor (Continued on Page 15, Col. 5)

Campaign to Deflate Stalin Moves on 2 Sides of Curtain

(By The Associated Press)
The Kremlin campaign to deflate the myth of Stalin as a demigod gathered momentum today on both sides of the Iron Curtain.

Moscow itself was calm, but through the veil of censorship came reports of disturbances in the Georgian birthplace of the dead Soviet dictator.

Throughout the vast stretches of the Soviet Union, Communist activists spread the new line, first in meetings of the party's local leadership and then by word of mouth to an ever widening audience.

Outside the Iron Curtain, Communist leaders were climbing aboard the new Red bandwagon with strong denunciations or mild rebukes of the dead leader they once publicly venerated. But an undertone of confusion prevailed.

New York State Shows Increase in Lung Cancer, Speaker Tells Ulster Meeting

Lung cancer in New York state has increased 505 per cent in men and 65 per cent in women during the past 20 years, Dr. Paul Gerhardt, director of the American Cancer Society for New York State and New England Division, told a luncheon meeting of city, town and county chairmen at the Gov. Clinton Hotel Saturday.

Studies of the American Cancer Society disclose facts in connection with lung cancer which should not be kept from the American public, he said.

In the past 20 years the cancer death rate in men increased 21 per cent, due primarily to the increase in lung cancer. Dr. Gerhardt said there were 22,000 cases of cancer reported in New York state last year—about half men and half women.

Breast cancer, the leading cause of death in women, has not decreased during the past 20 years, he pointed out. Only two of five women go to the doctor in time, he explained, pointing out that this was "why it is so important for us to educate the public." He said the "best weapon against cancer is education."

Twenty-five or 30 per cent of all people now living or being born will be "affected" by cancer, the second leading cause of death and one of the most expensive diseases to treat and diagnose, Dr. Gerhardt said. He pointed out, however, that cancer has a hopeful aspect. Seven years ago only 25 per cent of the cases were being reported in the early stages whereas last year 33 1/3 per cent were being reported. This is due to dissemination of knowledge about the disease. "Professional and lay education has made it possible."

He pointed out that it was essential for a person to get to the physician early. The difficulty is increased by the fact that cancer never gives pain in its early stages.

Another hopeful aspect of cancer is the fact that in the past 20 years "we have a 16 per cent less chance of dying from cancer," Dr. Gerhardt said. Also, there has been a reduction of (Continued on Page 15, Col. 3)

Scouts Shovel Out Fire Hydrants

Boy Scouts of the Kingston District pitched in Saturday to shovel out fire hydrants following the city's 12-inch snowfall.

The youthful shovel-wielders were reported to have done a commendable job throughout the city.

A radio appeal was made to Scouts to shovel out the hydrant nearest to their homes.

George V. Dennis, Scout executive of Rip Van Winkle Council, said this morning some of the boys not only cleared hydrants in the vicinity of their homes but also went to other points in the city.

The appeal was made at request of Fire Chief James Brett.

One patrol of Troop 6, Albany Avenue Baptist Church, reportedly cleared snow from 34 hydrants.

Mr. Dennis said he would probably have a more accurate picture of the results of the appeal following the regular monthly meeting of the district leaders at 7:45 p. m. today at the VFW hall.

Heart Attack Is

Sullivan in Cambridge, Mass., on May 31, 1894, he changed his name early in his career at the suggestion of his agent, a man named Allen.

HIS FIRST venture on the stage was as a juggler.

One day a stage manager walked out on the stage and asked him how he had learned his art. In his nasal voice the young Allen quipped:

"I took a correspondence course in baggage smashing."

The crack brought down the house and launched his career as a comedian. Ten years on U. S. and Australian vaudeville circuits followed.

In 1922 he met Miss Portia Hoffa in New York. They were married in 1928. The couple went into radio together in 1932 and also made several movies, including "Thanks a Million" and "Sally, Irene and Mary."

Portland's sing-song "Mr. Allen" greeting became the couple's trademark.

She was in their apartment on West 58th street when Allen was stricken Saturday night on his usual late-night stroll. She reached his body minutes later.

IN NEW YORK the all-night snowfall had piled up 11½ deep by daybreak. Freak thunder rumbled as the snow fell.

The weather bureau spoke of a "tapering off" after another 1 or 2 inches of snow fell, by this afternoon.

The snow, drifting five feet deep in spots, came on top of 4½ inches that hit Manhattan last Friday. It was the heaviest fall in the city since a 16½-inch accumulated Dec. 19, 1948.

In Queens about 1,000 cars were stalled on the Cross Island Parkway for seven miles. Army troops and police teamed to help the motorists to shelter.

MANY OF THE motorists remained in their cars until they ran out of gas and batteries went dead.

An emergency evacuation center was set up at the Queens Borough Hall. About 350 persons bedded down in courtrooms and other parts of the building.

The army loaded many motorists into jeeps and trucks and carried them to Fort Totten in Queens.

Later, many of the motorists trudged to subways and rode home or to work.

Supplemental Budget Likely To Be Signed

Albany, March 19 (AP)—A top-ranking Republican lawmaker said today he thought Gov. Harriman would sign a $93,846,000 supplemental budget worked out by GOP fiscal leaders and Harriman's budget director.

A bill carrying appropriations beyond the Democratic governor's original budget of $1,494,700,000 was laid on legislator's desks over the weekend.

Sen. Austin W. Erwin, chairman of the Republican-controlled Senate Finance Committee, said the supplemental budget represented "give and take." He added that he believed it would be acceptable to Harriman.

Charles Van Devander, Harriman's press secretary, said that the supplemental budget probably did not represent "complete agreement" on all items but that it had been worked out in a bipartisan manner.

OF THE NEW appropriations, 50 million dollars will be transferred from current revenue to the capital construction fund for highway and other construction purposes.

A total of $33,700,000 is earmarked for new increases in state aid to schools.

The measure would raise appropriations to $1,538,546,000 for the fiscal year 1956-57. This does not include the 50 million for highways and other construction.

The GOP-dominated Legislature earlier had cut $23,500,000 from Harriman's budget. Many of these reductions were restored in the new supplemental budget—but not $12,900,000 Harriman had asked for New York city.

AMONG the new items were $375,000 to finance an inspection program for vehicles four or more years old and $150,000 to intensify the motor vehicle bureau's enforcement of the state financial responsibility law.

The supplemental budget also provides $50,000 for expansion of the Commerce Department's small-business program, $350,000 to boost travel allowances of state employees and $100,000 for a study of the reasons for poverty. These items were trimmed drastically in the Republicans' original cut.

Farm Prices
Washington, March 19 (AP)—Sen. Mundt (R-S.D.) said today advocates of higher government farm price supports may make one more effort to raise them in the pending omnibus farm bill. "There has been some discussion of adding a gadget that would freeze part of our surpluses in a national security reserve and thus permit higher supports," Mundt said in an interview. Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) has such an amendment pending, but opponents of high level supports have said they would fight its adoption.

Fire Destroys Plane
Montreal, March 19 (AP)—Fire today raced through three giant big Royal Canadian Air Force hangars at Montreal Airport in suburban Dorval, destroying one plane and quantity of technical stores. Firemen from Montreal Lachine and Dorval helped the airport brigade prevent the flames from spreading to adjacent hangars of Trans-Canada Air Lines. The plane destroyed was a Fairchild packet, owned by the RCAF. Firemen said they expected damage would be heavy but no estimate of the loss was available.

Fire at Express Co.
A building housing the heating unit at Needes Express, Inc., 25 South Manor, was damaged in what was reported as a blow-back or explosion in the heater Sunday night. Wiltwyck station and Wicks Engine Company answered a call at 5:44 p. m. Damage was confined largely to the furnace room, but firemen reported a section of wall and ceiling cracked in the main building.

Condition Good
The condition of Harry L. Edson, assistant supervisor of Recreation who suffered a fall Saturday at the corner of Main and Green streets, was described as "good" today at Kingston Hospital.

Good Supper Dish!
Cook a package of frozen mixed vegetables and drain. Add the liquid you drain from the vegetables to milk and make a medium white sauce. Mix the vegetables, the white sauce and diced cooked ham or chicken, or replace the meat with flaked salmon or tuna. Spoon into a shallow baking dish, cover with thin cubes of bread mixed with butter and reheat in a moderate or hot oven.

Construction of a $30,000,000 petroleum refinery plant is now underway at Mamonal, on Cartagena Bay, Colombia.

Truck Hits Low Bridge, Cargo Scatters in Road
A truckman lost his cargo Sunday night in a way that has happened a few times in the past downtown.

Louis Terpening, 18, of Union Center, driving the truck of Esmond Vedder, of Saugerties, found the East Union street railroad bridge a bit too low.

Old car fenders and tin, piled in the truck, scattered on the road when the top of the load pushed into a bridge girder shortly after 10 p. m., officers George Dohnken and Gerard McCloskey reported.

An estimated $200 worth of sporting goods was reported taken from the store, and entrance was gained to the photo shop, but nothing was reported missing from there.

The theft was committed in the basement floor of the store, and entrance was gained through the breaking of windows and the forcing of a door with a heavy bar.

Police were notified of that theft at 8 a. m. today, and at 8:22 p. m. yesterday a report indicated that two young boys had been seen in the photo shop. Entrance was apparently gained through the breaking of glass in a rear door.

At the same time, defense attorneys formally asked for separate trials for each of the indicted Negroes. Judge Carter was required by law to grant that request.

Think It Through

By EDWARD F. HUTTON
NEWS FROM RUSSIA

Here's a hot one. The Associated Press reports that Khrushchev is raising merry Ned with his farm bureaucrats. On one state farm he says there are 250 "specialists" and only 42 workers.

"Everything they produce, they eat themselves," he lashed out.

Mr. Hutton

I hope this item will be read in Washington, D. C. For the same paper reports that we are "counting the calories in British grass"! At a cost of $17,000, we have sent a "pasture consultant" to England.

Still we are told that we can't lower taxes, nor pay anything on the Federal debt.

In 1776, in the Declaration of Independence, we complained that old King George "has erected a multitude of new offices and sent hither swarms of officers to harass our people, and eat out our substance."

It would perhaps be poetic justice for us now to force some bureaucrats down British throats IF they paid the bill. But we are doing the paying! Good old "Uncle"!

At the same time that we read of $7 billion of farm surpluses in Government warehouses, we read of spending more millions on irrigation projects to bring more land into cultivation!

There are thousands of such items running into billions of dollars. Meantime, England cut taxes last spring for the fourth straight year.

But no tax cut for you, neighbor, and me.

Investor Forum

Harry C. France

FINANCIAL FOUNDATIONS

Financial foundations for all investors have never been more important than now. It is easy to get caught up in the economic, social and political tides of today and, as a result, get whipsawed in the price confusion.

Jack Ulrich, for example, sold his stocks the day after President Eisenhower's sudden illness last September. He bought them back on the day the General announced his willingness to run again. Jack has thousands of comrades who are sorry they have done the same thing.

Regardless of age, financial or economic position, temperament or disposition, every investor and speculator should build a base under himself sufficiently deep and broad to withstand the storms and stresses that inevitably beat upon values.

A young man of 25 with no savings but with a job, asks, "What kind of a foundation can I build for myself?"

Well, he is making $100 a week and is not married. By re-vamping his standard of living a little, he can save $10 a week. Every dollar he has been making has slipped through his fingers. But on March first, 1956, he resolved to save 10 per cent of his earnings. What will he do with the $500 a year? With about $300, he will buy a $15,000 life insurance contract, and with the rest he will open a savings account. Thus, thrift and savings form the solid base of his economic life.

ANOTHER YOUNG man of 35, married, with a family of four to care for, got a $2,500 salary boost on January first. Up to this time, his life has been improvident. He had a few hundred dollars in a checking account and a $5,000 insurance contract. His income increase, strangely, made him reflect.

He could immediately improve his standard of living which was already high, or he could save the money. He decided to save. Sixty per cent of it will go into a $50,000 insurance policy and 40 per cent in two blue chip common stocks—an oil and a chemical.

The plot thickens with a high-powered sales executive who right now is in the prime of life. Federal and state income taxes have made him indifferent and careless about saving. He is 46, and his financial foundation, outside his marvelous job, is weak.

In college he was a powerful athlete and today his vigor is outstanding.

If he wanted to do so, he could save $10,000 a year. Yes, besides taxes. In 19 years he will be 65 and a good guess is that then he will want to retire.

What should he do? Start building a $200,000 estate at once! Put $5,000 a year in a 25-year endowment policy and with the rest of his savings buy some good grade, speculative stocks that should double in ten years.

Or take the case of the widow, 66, who needs to have her entire investment program realigned. She can't afford to buy growth securities paying a small return. The young men of 25 and 35 can. With her, five per cent and stability mean much more than three per cent and growth. She has outgrown growth.

In the whole economic realm there is nothing more fascinating than the building of individualistic financial security. Every person differs from every other person. Investment portfolios to be logical and effective must be hand-tailored. And when they are, investors have financial foundations that will stand when adverse winds blow.

THE FORUM (Q) "Will you comment on interest rates in 1956?" (A) Bank credit is in demand. New York city banks look for firm rates in the immediate future. High grade bond prices reflect this condition.

Harry C. France will answer one letter each week through this column. If you have any investment questions, write in care of this newspaper.

Briefly Told

Ogdensburg, N. Y., March 19 (P)—An auto caravan and a truck load of ice will leave here tomorrow for Albany to urge favorable action on a bill that would appropriate 15 million dollars for construction of an Ogdensburg international bridge.

The ice is to demonstrate that Ogdensburg in winter is cut off from Canada by the frozen St. Lawrence river.

Two high school bands will play on the steps of the capitol at noon. The delegation later plans to attend the legislative session at which the bill comes up for a vote.

New York, March 19 (P)—General Aniline & Film Corp. says construction of a new ethylene oxide and glycol plant at Linden, N. J., will start in about six months.

John Hilldring, president of the firm, said yesterday the new plant will cost about eight million dollars and will be located adjacent to its existing dyestuff and chemical division plant in the Jersey community.

Operations at the plant are scheduled to start up in 1957, Hilldring said.

Albany, N. Y., March 19 (P)—Gov. Harriman's supplemental budget, to be submitted to the Legislature this week, will include a request for $100,000 to install a public ice-skating rink in the State Coliseum at Syracuse.

Charles Van Devander, Harriman's press secretary, said Saturday the rink would be operated for about 20 weeks a year. Children would be admitted free and adults would pay a "nominal charge."

The rink would be used also for high-school hockey games and for organized "pee wee hockey" games.

Albany, N. Y., March 19 (P)—Industrialists, atomic scientists and educators from all sections of the state will participate in a statewide conference on industrial uses of atomic energy April 4 at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute in Troy.

Commissioner Edward T. Dickinson of the State Commerce Department said Saturday that the aim of the day-long meeting is to prompt the exchange of ideas on industrial applications of atomic power.

Albany, N. Y., March 19 (P)—Sunday has been designated as "Greek Independence Day" in New York state.

Gov. Harriman noted yesterday that Grecians proclaimed their independence on March 25, 1821. He said their nation stood today as "a firm bulwark against Communist imperialism."

Haik is cloth, usually of coarse hand-woven wool, worn by Arabs, Moors and other Mohammedan peoples.

Wallet Thief Gets 4 Months

New York, March 19 (Special)

—A New Yorker was sentenced to four months in the workhouse today in Special Sessions Court here, on a charge that he stole a wallet from George Ashdown, of 52 Smith avenue, Kingston.

Willie Williams, 51, of 770 St. Nicholas avenue, New York, was arrested on the New York Central Railroad platform at 125th street and Park avenue, Manhattan, on Feb. 27, when Ashdown chased and caught him.

Ashdown claimed that Williams had stolen his wallet while making profuse apologies for spitting on his pants. He told the court that he missed the wallet right away and took after Williams, who threw it away.

The New York man pleaded guilty to the wallet theft earlier this month.

Yonkers Aid to Continue

Albany, N. Y., March 19 (P)—The state education commissioner decided today to continue apportioning state educational aid to the city of Yonkers, at least for another year. Commissioner James E. Allen Jr., said that evidence of improvement in the city school system was not conclusive enough for him to make a final decision on a request that school aid be withheld from the city. He ordered the city board of education to submit by next Jan. 1 a report on anticipated school needs for the next year and how it proposed to meet them.

WEATHER BREEDER

Sometimes it seems hard to understand why men should endure extreme hardship, with the threat of a lonely death ever present, to explore the Antarctic.

There is the challenge of adventure and the unknown, granted; there is even the chance of winning fame and having one's name printed across a map. Doubtless the men who penetrate the ice pack to establish bases in that frozen land are moved by the spirit that prompted Sir Edmund Hillary to say, when asked why he wanted to conquer Mount Everest, "Because it is there."

What comes of it all? Is there any practical reason for devoting time, skill, energy, resources to study of an icy wasteland at the bottom of the world?

The full answer to that question may never be known. But already there are indications that practical benefits, as well as the satisfaction of scientific curiosity, will result from the studies now being conducted by several nations.

Recent flights by Americans now in the Antarctic have unveiled a vast ice trough that spawns some of the most violent weather in the world. Great winds, rising sometimes to hurricane gusts of 200 miles an hour, sweep down the trough and out into Indian ocean. It may well be that these blasts of frigid air have a profound effect on more temperate climates. It may also be that Antarctic weather stations will some day give Iowa farmers and New England truckers and Florida citrus growers a better idea of what weather to expect a week from tomorrow.

That's practical enough for anybody.

WANTED: MORE AIR

The more airplanes there are, and the faster they move, the more air space we need. But air space cannot be expanded. There are just so many cubic miles of it over the United States, and that's all.

This presents a dilemma that is receiving attention in Congress. The dilemma is going to get worse, because the number and speed of aircraft are increasing steadily.

The problem is aggravated by the fact that planes need much more space when airborne than on the ground. A plane that would fit in a suburban backyard requires several miles of open air space around it, when aloft, for safety's sake. The reason is that our present system of keeping tabs on planes in flight—position, speed, altitude, direction, and so forth—is not good enough to handle the growing volume of air traffic. By the time jets are in general civilian service a few years hence, the present system will be dangerously outmoded.

It will be, that is, unless the government takes steps to devise a better system of control utilizing new techniques of automatic computing and transmission. Congress is currently getting the facts through hearings. When enough facts are assembled, it will be time for prompt action.

FOLKLORE OF THE '50s

Stories of gold and silver rushes in the days when the West was wild and woolly are still a source of excitement, but they've not obscured the scene of contemporary adventure for uranium prospectors. The mule and horse have given way to the automobile. The pick-ax has been supplanted by the geiger counter. But the elements of chance and excitement are still the same. Uranium has world-wide implications. It affects the international balance of power in terms of bombs and technological aid to other nations. Furthermore, it is a source of great riches. It has made men wealthy overnight. And supplementing old yarns of gold and silver, new ones are in the making of those who've lost all in a fruitless search.

It may be a while before adventure writers catch the excitement of uranium hunts, but one day the jeep, the geiger counter and uranium may produce as many tales as the pick-ax, the mule and the gold. Tomorrow's children may look back wistfully to the exciting old days of ticking counters and the uranium strikes of the 1950s.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY
MORE THAN CYPRUS

The problem that the British face in Cyprus, that the French face in Algeria, that the United States faces in Saudi Arabia, is a universal unrest resulting not only from World War II but from the failure of the Western countries to limit the success of the Communist countries. Each upsurge of mass antagonism to a Western country has been the product as much of the American failure in Korea and the French failure in Indochina and the British retreat from Empire as to any concepts of self-determination which is fairly meaningless in Cyprus. That island can benefit neither economically nor spiritually from the elimination of the British but is definitely inviting occupation by Turkey and possibly a war between Greece and Turkey.

This is not a question that can be decided judicially as to which party is right and which is wrong, any more than the quarrel between Israel and the Arabs can be so adjudicated. None of the parties at issue mean to give way and will fight if necessary but will not fight if intimidated by either of the two powerful blocs that could now pretty well control the world. It is unbelievable that Soviet Russia has missed playing some kind of hand in the Cyprus disturbance.

Many questions in international relations cannot be adjudicated because what is involved is power and not justice. The British had to decide whether they would lose all prestige in the Middle Eastern world by being thrown out of Cyprus as Glubb Pasha was kicked out of Jordan or whether they would make a stand somewhere and take a chance on making it good. It is unfortunate for Greece that the stand was made in Cyprus instead of, let us say, Jordan, but there is a logic to it in the sense that the Balkan Alliance has already come to nothing on account of Tito's sweetness and gentleness toward a Stalinless Russia and Turkey's absolute insistence that there should be no political change in Cyprus. Were the Balkan Alliance a strong relationship, it would undoubtedly have been foolhardy for the British to risk Greek antagonism but as the Alliance is now nothing to take seriously, the British on a purely pragmatic basis, could afford to risk taking a stand. At any rate, Turkey will remain an ally even if Greece wants to break away and if so, where will Greece go? To Tito?

It is this kind of reasoning which, in the 19th Century, helped to build and maintain great empires but which has grown unpopular in the 20th Century, particularly as European nations have been forced to give due consideration not only to American sentimentality but to the very practical relationship between the ballot box and the size of migrant groups in the United States. The British do not face such a problem. Except for the presence of a comparatively small number of Greeks and Cypriotes in London, mostly in Soho, no Member of Parliament can be politically affected by the decision of his government concerning Cyprus. The Greek community in the United States, while not as large or important as the Jewish or the Italian, is in some areas, worthy of political consideration, particularly in an election year. Therefore the British could make their stand, if they wanted to, and the United States is again caught in a very awkward situation. We have become everybody's friend and therefore everybody's problems are ours.

The uprisings that have been occurring throughout the world give increasing evidence that nationalism is on the march. The internationalism which gained such strength and popularity in the United States and, to a lesser degree, in Great Britain, subsequent to World War I, is now a dying idealism in most of the world. The smaller nations want none of it and in Asia and Africa it is regarded as a weapon of the great powers to repress the small and backward countries. What we witness in Morocco, Algeria, Cyprus, Egypt, Jordan, Israel and practically everywhere we look is a rejuvenated nationalism, a return to localistic patriotism, an identification of language with nationality even if anthropologists and ethnologists cannot establish the authenticity of the association. Flags are flying high again and such an institution as the United Nations sits on the East River a monument to internationalistic futility.

That Body of Yours

CONTROL OF ANXIETY

"There is a level of anxiety which is entirely normal and which may be useful indeed since it causes individuals to seek solutions to their problems. There is also anxiety of greater intensity which interferes with effective functioning and even causes or contributes to illness and suffering. Many people are indeed 'worried sick.' The task of the physician is to control, not to abolish anxiety. I am quoting Dr. Richard L. Jenkins' article on The Medical Significance of Anxiety, which goes on to state that this task is resolved into two elements:

1. To control any existing morbid anxiety;
 2. To help the patient organize his thinking and his life so that recurrence of runaway anxiety is unlikely.
- Steps in the management of anxiety are:
- (a) Recognition of its presence, estimation of its degree and pervasiveness, and recognition of its causes, is possible.
 - (b) Immediate measures for its reduction, such as removal of the patient from grossly anxiety-provoking situations, reestablishment of some sense of security through the patient's confidence in the physician, and prescription of sedative (quieting) drugs as indicated.
 - (c) Development of the patient's understanding of his own mental state and the reasons for his anxiety to the end of giving him a greater understanding and control of his own reaction.
 - (d) Encouragement of modification of the patient's life adjustment to prevent proneness to recurrence of runaway anxiety.

Dr. Jenkins points out that in dealing with anxiety, diagnosis and treatment are by no means separable. Diagnosis is part of treatment and the physician should always bear in mind that the anxious patient is always looking desperately for help and that he usually looks particularly to the physician by reason of the function and training of the medical man. Confidence and courage may be no less infectious than anxiety and fear but can spread from physician to patient only if the patient doesn't feel a basis for confidence. This will be shown in two ways by the patient: (1) his belief in the medical knowledge of the physician, and (2) his belief in the physician's interest in him as a person, not merely as a "case." It is usually the second point that is of the greater importance to the patient.

The physical signs of anxiety are not wholly dependable; some persons seem able to conceal true worry beneath the proverbial "smiling exterior." Tense restlessness; a lined worried face; wet palms; and chewed nails are frequent symptoms. With severe states, the pulse may be rapid and the pupils dilated. A careful medical examination of the patient should be undertaken at the beginning and followed by whatever clinical and laboratory procedures are indicated. The physician should put himself in a position to speak with confidence as soon as possible.

Tomorrow we will have a look at the management of anxiety, particularly from the sedation point of view.

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington — (NEA) — The complete record of the Communist party's 20th Congress in Moscow has now been translated into English and circulated among government experts on Russia for analysis and determination of counterpolicy measures. The transcript runs to over 900,000 words. If published in book form it would be about the size of "Gone With the Wind," or Adolf Hitler's "Mein Kampf."

This latter work was not studied as closely as it should have been when it first came out. The result was that all but the few scholars who had taken the trouble to read it were caught totally unprepared for the Nazi aggression.

Speeches of the Russian leaders—some of them hours long—are now regarded as just as important and as dangerous as Hitler's rantings.

But there are still considerable differences among experts on what the free world must be warned against and prepared to meet.

STALIN HAS BEEN DEAD for three years and his book, "The Problems of Leninism," which was the "bible" of international communism for many a year—has been scrapped.

The proceedings of the 20th Congress take its place. But the consensus is now that the 20th Congress did not mark the beginning of a new policy. It marks instead the ratification of an earlier change in Communist policy.

The idea of a "collective leadership" is not regarded as new. Communist Russia had collective leaderships before. Stalin liquidated them.

There was another collective leadership after Stalin's death, in which Beria himself was first liquidated. Then Malenkov and Molotov, Stalin's wheelhorses, were demoted.

What has happened now is seen as the assertion of power by four old-time Bolsheviks of the Lenin era, Khrushchev, Bulganin, Mikoyan and Kaganovich. These four top men in Russia today are determined there shall be no return of Stalinism with its internal, secret police terror.

SKEPTICS DO NOT BELIEVE that this collective leadership will last, however. Khrushchev is now seen as far more powerful than the others. He may in time emerge as the one top dictator, which would be a partial return to Stalinism.

The second principal declaration of the 20th Congress being given closest study is the intent to achieve international Communist aims by other than forceful means.

One of Lenin's major themes was that war between capitalist and Communist systems was inevitable. World communism was to triumph through revolution and aggression.

The announced new line is that this conquest can be achieved by "united front" political action in the democracies. This implies that parliamentary systems will be used to destroy parliaments, then to set up Communist dictatorships.

THIS IS WHAT the Communists tried but failed to do in Czechoslovakia. Mikoyan's speech before the 20th Congress says this more openly than Communists have ever admitted it before.

They are apparently willing to take a chance on neutralism like Tito's in Yugoslavia and Nehru's in India. The condition of acceptance is that the neutrals be willing to throw out American influence and coexist under Communist domination.

The concern over united front action is that the Communists might succeed in this strategy in France, Italy, Indonesia or even Germany. It would be done by uniting the left wing parties with the extreme rightists to oppose and finally overthrow the center, democratic parties.

Cable Brings Trouble

Trenton, Ill. (P) — Emery Weddel, who drove his tractor-trailer truck into a ditch in a heavy fog, tried to get it back on the road by stretching a steel cable from a winch on the truck across the busy highway to a tree. Another big truck smashed into the steel cable and snapped Weddel's truck back onto the highway, where it jack-knifed and overturned. A car then plowed into the wreckage. Two other trucks took to a ditch to avoid the pileup. No one was seriously hurt.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

The British government belatedly has decided to clean out of the Foreign Office all Communists and spouses and other co-habitants of Reds, all homosexuals, drug addicts and alcoholics. This reluctant concession to "McCarthyism" will raise objections in the English press. That press and the British public generally are tolerant of treason, holding such treachery to be no worse than a perverse political whim and, like as not, an affection adopted by distinguished personalities to attract attention.

Homosexuality, never abhorred unconditionally in Europe as it was until recently in the United States, will not lack defenders. Indeed, only last summer, pretentious English periodicals argued that the law should tolerate acts of sexual perversion by adults in private with mutual consent, neither party being crazy. This proposal was not deplored by any of the political handshakes which had berated Joe McCarthy for years and out-clamored our own inexplicable Washington Post when the New York pro-Communist cabal finally put over the meaningless "condemnation."

McCarthy was the first prominent American politician to declare that sexual depravity bespoken bad character and opened the door to blackmailers seeking secret information from our State Department. Few individuals were identified. One such was and is an old friend of William C. Bullitt, and a professional associate of Alben Barkley's son-in-law, the late Max Truitt. Another is a notorious rotter long associated with the Roosevelt family who rose al-

British Example Is Cited
On Need for Security Rules

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, March 19—The basic principle that the safety of the state—the nation and all its people—is more important to protect than the doubtful right of an individual to a government job has just received its strongest endorsement by the Parliament of Great Britain. For centuries England has been held up as a model defender of human rights, but various critics there and elsewhere in Europe have in recent years been scoffing at the loyalty and security programs of the United States government.

Now with a condition and not just a theory staring them in the face, a conference of privy councillors, appointed by the Prime Minister, has adopted a report which is an aftermath of the cases of Burgess and Maclean, who turned traitor while occupying important posts in the British Foreign Office.

THERE HAVE been in Britain, as in America, misguided comments by so-called "liberals" against the action of government departments in taking into account "guilt by association," and much furor has been raised here about the alleged neglect of "due process of law"—a phrase used in the Constitution.

But what these critics mean by "due process" is that everybody suspected of subversive activity or of possibly becoming a security risk in a government department must be given the same procedures as in a court trial. This would include the right to cross-examine witnesses and to force public disclosure of confidential informants. As Chairman Francis Weller, of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, said the other day, this would be a convenient way for the Communists to find out how they were being detected.

The latest British official report, however, declares it is necessary to conceal sources of information sometimes and that security risks cannot be handled on the basis of "standards which would be accepted in a court of law. The full text of the report itself is withheld as "not in the public interest to publish" and only an "official summary" is revealed, which says in part:

"THE CONFERENCE is of the opinion that in deciding these difficult and often borderline cases it is right to continue the practice of tilting the balance in favor of offering greater protection to the security of the state rather than in the direction of safeguarding the rights of the individual. They recommend that an individual who is living with a wife or husband who is a Communist or a Communist sympathizer may, for that reason alone, have to be moved from secret work, and that the same principle should be applied in other cases of a like nature.

"The conference recognizes that some of the measures which the state is driven to take to protect its security are in some respects alien to our traditional practices. Thus, in order not to imperil sources of information, decisions have sometimes to be taken without revealing full details of the supporting evidence. Again it is sometimes necessary to refuse to employ a man on secret duties, or in those cases where no alternative work can be found for him in the public service, to refuse to employ him at all, because after the fullest investigation doubts about his reliability remain, even although nothing may have been proved against him on standards which would be accepted in a court of law."

IN THE MAIN the report says that while the present arrangements are not unsound, "certain recommendations are necessary to strengthen the system in some respects." There follows some important observations:

"The conference recognizes that today great importance must be paid to character defects as factors tending to make a man unreliable or expose him to blackmail, or influence by foreign agents. There is a duty on departments to inform themselves of serious failings such as drunkenness, addiction to drugs, homosexuality or any loose living that may seriously affect a man's reliability."

"In individual cases and in certain sections of the public service a serious character defect may appropriately be the determining factor in a decision to dismiss a particular individual or to transfer him to other work."

THIS VERY subject is now before the Supreme Court of the United States for a ruling in some key cases, so it is interesting to see how a high tribunal in Britain has dealt with the same problem. In fact the wording of the British Parliament report, while not as comprehensive as the existing executive order of the President and the directive of the secretary of defense, actually parallels them both.

It certainly makes one wonder what kind of jurisprudence the two judges of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in San Francisco applied recently when they said the United States Coast Guard couldn't keep a seaman off a ship—if they suspected him of being a security risk—until complicated legal procedures were carried out. Yet criticism properly visited upon these judges for subordinating the national safety to the rights of an individual has been denounced by phony "liberals" as a sublimation of the state in line with Hitler doctrine. They should examine the British Parliament's report to get the latest word about protection of all the people against the machinations of the few.

Southern Canada Clogged by Snow, Three Are Dead

Halifax, N. S., March 19 (AP)—Canada's southern maritime provinces continued to dig out today from under snow brought by a paralyzing weekend blizzard. New reports of injuries filtered in from scattered areas. Three deaths occurred during the height of the howling storm and there were many reports of injuries. Drifts up to 15 feet cut off most highway traffic Saturday.

Two children died in a house fire at Mount Unicaque, about 35 miles from Halifax. A 16-year-old was killed at Pennfield, N. B., when the car in which he was driving collided with a snowplow.

IN THE Annapolis valley 16 inches of snow plugged highways. One woman was taken to Maternity Hospital on a sled. The baby was stillborn, but Mrs. Harold Blenus of Keniville was reported in good condition.

The storm kept five ocean-going ships off Halifax Harbor, including the big German liner Seven Seas. One child suffered a broken arm when the ship was tossed about by Atlantic storms. Several other passengers were bruised.

At least two New Brunswick settlements—Dipper Harbor and Chance Harbor on the Bay of Fundy—were isolated but plows were battling to reach them. Some secondary roads remained clogged in Nova Scotia, but no hardships were reported.

MOST BUS schedules and all airline flights were cancelled yesterday in the maritimes. Trains were running behind time and ferry schedules were disrupted. But there were few communication and power failures.

The southern end of the Maritimes felt the biggest wallop. The storm gradually tapered off as it moved along, and Sydney had only five inches of snow. Charlottetown reported four inches.

Defense Must Develop Tricks

North's jump to three no-trump in today's hand may seem bold, but it's the normal expert bid. South's opening bid of one no-trump shows 16 to 18 points, and north has nine points. The total is almost sure to be the 26 points usually needed for game, and North should waste no time getting to a game contract.

West opens the jack of hearts, and South sees that he must develop tricks in both black suits to make the game contract. He wins the first trick in dummy with the king and tries the spade finesse, losing to West's king.

West can see that the hearts are hopeless. Hence he shifts to the eight of diamonds, thus putting declarer to the test.

If declarer plays a low diamond from the dummy, East will play just high enough to force out the king. West will later gain the lead with the ace of clubs and continue diamonds through dummy's queen. The defenders will thus take three diamond tricks in addition to the king of spades and ace of clubs.

South can foil this plot by putting up dummy's queen of diamonds when West begins that suit. East must take his ace, but he cannot continue the suit without allowing dummy's ten of diamonds to win a trick. East must shift to a different suit.

The shift gives South time to develop his club tricks to make sure of the game contract. West leads another diamond when he gets his ace of clubs, but South still has the king of diamonds to stop the suit.

Arsonist Blamed For Chicago Fires

Chicago, March 19 (AP)—At least one-fourth of the city's fire force was called to extinguish three south side fires early today—one of which claimed two lives and another which a fire official called the work of an arsonist. The fires occurred almost simultaneously.

The bodies of James Kelly, about 70, and John Hughes, about 60, were found in the burned out interior of the Jackson Park View Hotel at 1560 E. 64th street.

Damage to the hotel was estimated by the owners at more than $20,000.

Chief Edward Valliquet said an arsonist apparently started a fire in a three-story apartment building at 5023 S. Michigan avenue. He said firemen found four trash cans had been ignited and set against doorways in the building.

About 100 residents of the building fled to safety and no injuries were reported. Valliquet said the upper two floors of the building were destroyed. He estimated damage at $10,000.

The third fire swept through a grocery store at 36th street and Cottage Grove avenue. No injuries were reported. Damage was estimated at $10,000.

The Full Dinner Pail

By FRANK TRIPP

Uncle Charley Smart thinks it's sort of hitting Ike below the belt to harp on his sickness and consign him to the junk pile because of it. "There's nothing neighborly, humane or Christian about it," says he.

Among the folks where I work," says Uncle Charley, "when a man licks a sick spell everybody is glad and turns in to make it easy for him till he gets his stride back. They don't twist him into a relapse telling him he's through and a has-been."

Maybe you'd better get acquainted with "Uncle Charley," seeing as how I'm going to get most of my political opinions from him up to election time. He's a much better judge of political hogwash than I am, and it looks like we'll have more than usual hogs to wash. The vat is full of 'em already, wallowing in their own slime.

JUST THE OTHER night Uncle Charley was tipping me off on something to watch out for. "Boy (he still calls me boy), watch for the battered old 'dinner pail' again," he said.

Then I remembered its origin as a lad, the appeal to the voter's favor via his stomach, like a housewife hangs on to her meal ticket.

You see, Uncle Charley is a practical old fellow who analyses the hogwash from a selfish viewpoint, how it is going to affect him. He's not an easy mark for the class hatred diatribes that picture prosperous American workers as suffering, downtrodden serfs for whom every candidate's heart aches and bleeds.

Once or maybe twice Uncle Charley fell for it. It was part of his education, learning that when the returns came in, that was the end of most candidates' "heartaches," until they had to run again.

SO UNCLE CHARLEY has learned to swallow about one-tenth of the political twist that ties onto almost everything from March to November; view it as a national vaudeville show with a few star acts, but mostly the fin flipping of the trained seals and the braying of the jackasses trying to get into the spotlight. His memory goes back to the "full dinner pail" as originally the symbol of the Republican Party; better known than its emblem, the eagle, more often exploited than the elephant. It was one of the original "keep the boys happy" gimmicks.

And it worked—save when Teddy Roosevelt upset the apple cart and beat Bill Taft—all the way from McKinley to Hoover, who got caught in the 1929 depression. Then the Democrats got out the old bucket, pounded out the dents and polished it up.

THE FULL dinner pail, by whomsoever brandished, has always appealed to Uncle Charley. For years he carried one across town on a street car, to work six days a week for half of the pay that he now gets for five days.

Now he drives his own car, lunches at the plant cafeteria or even runs home for lunch on occasion. He hasn't owned a dinner pail for years, but it still is the symbol of the thing that he has worked for always.

In one form or another the "full dinner pail" has been the hope of all parties and almost all candidates. It is about the oldest tool in politics, has clicked repeatedly. In war, fact, fiction, crime and politics nothing has clicked more often than threatening a man's belly.

BUT IT WORKS best when the electorate is hungry, when cupboards are empty, factories closed, jobs scarce, pay low, savings gone and starvation threatened.

Uncle Charley says that he has never seen it really turn the tide at any other times. "Full stomachs don't scare easy," he says.

He's watching to see if a grotesque twist of it, hinged upon class hatred and persecution of leadership, will click in this greatest year of prosperity that the richest nation in the world has ever known. The all-time fullest dinner pail.

"If it does," says Uncle Charley, "the American people can be sold anything."

DO YOU REMEMBER

By SOPHIE MILLER

One of the topics of today is the one-way uptown traffic regulations. I am not taking sides, not even the middle of the road, but on reading in The Kingston Freeman and Journal of January 30, 1912, the following story shows some of the traffic problems of 44 years ago. "It seems there was a brief but thrilling runaway up Wall street about 10 o'clock in the morning. The delivery sleigh of George L. Kinkade, the North Front street grocer, had just turned out of John street and proceeded a short distance when another rig attempted to pass it. Kinkade's horse is somewhat of a trotter and did not like the idea of allowing another horse to pass him on the road, so he kicked up his heels and started on a run up the street."

That is all uptown needs right now is a run-a-way horse. Anyway the story continued: "All would have gone well, but for the breaking of a shaft which frightened the horse and he increased his speed, breaking into a headlong gallop with the sleigh swinging from side to side and the driver saving on the reins in a vain endeavor to stop the now thoroughly frightened animal. As the runaway neared North Front street, Officer Andy Walker, jumped out in the road and grasped the horse by the bit, bringing him to a full stop. While the driver and Walker were figuring on the best way to repair the damage to the shaft, Paul Radatz of the telephone company, who was passing, solved the problem by the use of some telephone wire, he had with him, which he wound tightly around the broken shaft."

In the same Freeman, there was an item which told about the famous Skillyput the only ferry running between Albany and Newburgh. The Poughkeepsie Ferry was forced to give up the fight against the ice and was put up for repairs. Sleights were running across the Hudson river from Highland. I wonder how many folks remember when there was talk to have the Rondout Creek Bridge through Fly Mt. and Eddyville. At the time a contract was awarded for the Eddyville Bridge. State Highway Commissioner C. Gordon Reel, was instrumental in having the resolution adopted, directing the legislative committee at Albany, to prepare a bill for introduction, changing the state highway route, so as to bring it through Port Ewen and the Sleightburgh hill, instead of by way of Fly Mountain and Eddyville, and providing for the construction of a bridge across the Rondout creek, from Sleightburgh to Kingston.

Sam Bernstein and Son, on Wall street, had nearly a full page advertisement in The Freeman in February of 1912 with such bargains as: "Men's corduroy pants at 79 cents, made with two hip pockets. Men's work shirts for 29 cents. Single breasted fleece lined winter underwear for 29 cents. The famous 'Root's' underwear for 79 cents. Full size men's hemstitched white handkerchiefs were 3 cents. Those were the days of celluloid collars which were 3 cents at the sale, also rubber collars were 13 cents. We had long cold healthy winters, with the ice freezing on the Hudson a foot thick so that an auto could go across with passengers, and folks wore real warm underwear, fleeced-lined, red flannels, and sheep skin lined coats. With the weather changing, the styles have changed.

Fumes Cause Death

Torrington, Wyo., March 19 (AP)—Three small brothers decided to help with the housework by applying liquid polish to the furniture. But the idea turned into tragedy while their mother, Mrs. Raymond Canave, was visiting a neighbor Saturday. The family physician said fumes from the polish apparently killed Michael Canave, 8. His brothers, Randy, 6, and Johnny, 4, were found unconscious. They were revived at a hospital.

Family Perishes In One of Four Fires in State

By The Associated Press

A family of four perished in a fire near Ellenburg yesterday in one of four major fires reported in updated New York over the weekend.

The other fires were at Phelps, Rome and Glens Falls.

At Ellenburg, District Attorney Thomas R. North said Clifford Miller, 31, apparently died when he attempted to rescue his wife, Emma, 29, and two children, Susan, 8 and Francis, 10 from their rural home three miles north of the Clinton county village.

NORTH SAID Miller's body was found in a shedlike vestibule of the one-story frame house, leading to the belief the father had emerged from the home but was trapped when he tried to return to rescue his family.

The cause of the fire was not determined. At Phelps, fire leveled a $175,000 manufacturing plant early yesterday.

Fireman Ned McAllister, 21, was burned by a flash from an explosion. He was thrown 20 feet to the ground from a ladder and treated for numerous burns.

FORTY PERSONS were employed by the company which manufactured, among other things, artificial ornamental trees.

Detective A. L. Cecere said the cause of the fire in the two-story frame building had not been determined. A 13-year-old girl was the heroine of the Rome fire. Janet Marshall quickly dressed three younger sisters and a baby brother yesterday, saw them safely out of their burning home, and then returned to put out the fire.

Janet said one of her sisters discovered the fire on the second floor of their rural home about 6 a. m.

Janet dressed Velma, 6, and Louise, 8, sent them running to a neighbor's home for help, and then dressed 4-year-old Norman and 8-month-old Jerry and took them outside.

WITH THE younger children safe, Janet returned to the house,

Patrolman Shoots Running Prowler

New York, March 19 (AP)—An unidentified youth was shot to death early today by a policeman trailing a prowler's footprints through the heavy snow in Belrose, Queens.

Patrolman Lawrence Bender and Joseph Brandt in a radio car responded at 1:45 a. m. to a call that a prowler was trying doors of homes at Gettysburg street and 93rd road.

The policemen found footprints leading to side and rear doors. Bender followed the prints, while Brandt trailed along in the car.

Bender spotted a youth coming out of a driveway and the youth knocked him down with a blow on the shoulder, the officer reported. Bender regained his feet and gave chase. He said he fired a warning shot in the air as he was losing ground and the car was skidding in the snow, and then fired one shot at the fugitive.

The youth, shot in the back, fell dead at 93rd avenue and 239th street. Police said they found cash and several rings in his pockets.

grabbed a pail and ran up and down stairs with buckets of water. When firemen reached the scene, Janet, with the help of neighbors, had the fire almost out.

Firemen said the fire started in partitions near a chimney. The children's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Marshall, and three other children were not at home at the time.

At Glen Falls, one business building was ruined and two other structures, one a YMCA, were heavily damaged by fire Saturday night.

The F. W. Woolworth Company's building was a charred wreck yesterday. The YMCA at one side of the building and a business building on the other side, housing a women's clothing shop and a shoe store, were damaged by fire, water and smoke.

About 50 persons fled the YMCA. There was no official estimate of the loss.

Fire Chief Fran Preston said the blaze apparently started in the basement of the three-story, brick Woolworth building. The cause was not determined.

Farm, Home Week Opens at Cornell

Ithaca, N. Y., March 19 (AP)—The annual farm and home week of the state college of agriculture opens today at Cornell University.

The program runs through Friday and will feature an address Wednesday by Gov. Harri-man and a talk Thursday by Dr. Persia Campbell, the governor's consumer counsel.

Scheduled for today were talks on farm management and marketing. Prof. C. A. Bratton was to give "pointers on selecting a farm." Prof. S. W. Warren was to follow with a discussion of father-son business arrangements, and Prof. R. S. Smith was to speak on "getting started in farming."

Prof. John W. Mellor also was to show colored slides depicting the differences in farming in New York and other states.

Apartment Raided

Louisville, Ky., March 19 (AP)—Patrolman John R. Thomas Jr., had a report for police yesterday. He said vandals raided his apartment, shredding one of his uniforms, taking $462 in loot, plus his service pistol and handcuffs, scattering garbage over his kitchen and breaking out three windows.

Wife Beating Charge

Los Angeles, March 19 (AP)—Carlos Noriega, 29, was booked on suspicion of wife beating yesterday after his wife, Esther, 18, complained to police that he beat her and then massaged her face and body with a cactus plant.

Nearly one of every ten cars now is assembled on the west coast.

Soldier Is Held In Rape Slashing Of Woman, 83

Canton, N. Y., March 19 (AP)—Ronald Wayne Cooper, a 17-year-old soldier, was in the St. Lawrence county jail today, pending grand jury action on a charge he beat, slashed and raped an 83-year-old Ogdensburg widow.

Meanwhile, Dist. Atty. Charles E. Bowers disclosed that the youth's father, 41-year-old William Cooper, had been arrested in Cleveland last Feb. 22 on a bench warrant based on a charge that he abandoned his family Sept. 9, 1950.

An extradition hearing for the elder Cooper is scheduled for March 29 at Cleveland.

Young Cooper, arrested at a bus terminal in New York city Friday, was returned to Ogdensburg Saturday night.

The youth accompanied Ogdensburg authorities to an alley near the widow's apartment house and pointed out a snow-bank where, they reported, they found Mrs. Ola Murdock's blood-stained nightgown.

The retired schoolteacher was found unconscious in her apartment last Wednesday. She died the next day in a hospital.

The Mature Parent
Charity Ward Human Frailty Has a Message for Parents

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Nearly every week for the past three months I have visited a ward in my city's big charity hospital.

The person I visit lies in one of its 30 beds. Their occupants are elderly women. Except for the person I visit they change from week to week. Where do they go? I don't know. It's not a question to ask the person I visit, for she is deeply uneasy about herself.

However, what has impressed me is not the difference in the ward's patients but the certain look they share in common. Unchanging in their changing faces, the look is always the same—a look that is at the same time submissive and distrustful. It invites ill-treatment.

But the people who look after them never respond to its invitation. Two weeks ago, I saw a Negro nurse's aide pause at the bed to pour fruit juice for its occupant. In lifting the cup to the pitcher, the aged outstretched arm trembled. Some of the juice spilled. Instantly, the aged face filled with wary fear of reproach. And in immediate, instinctive reassurance, the nurse's aide, a busy woman pushed by a tight work schedule, smiled—and gently repaired the damage.

This week, it's the doctors I remember. Under the leadership of a noted specialist, they were making a round of the ranked beds. As their leader stooped over the frail old body three beds away, I recalled that I had been told it belonged to a relief client who, falling ill, had been discovered half-starved in her dingy furnished room.

The eminent specialist lifted

Good Taste Today

By EMILY POST

(Author of Etiquette, Children Are People, etc.)

ASKING CHATTERER TO BE QUIET

Today's first letter tells me: "The other afternoon my husband and I went to a lecture. The subject was one in which we were greatly interested. However, we heard about every tenth word of what the lecturer said because of two women in back of us who chatted constantly. Why they ever came to the lecture I'll never know. My husband was very much annoyed and was all for turning around and telling them to 'shut up' which he didn't do of course. My question to you, Mrs. Post, is: Does good manners demand that one sit in silence and let the offenders go on being rude, or may one ask these chatterers to be quiet?"

You would have been within your rights of courtesy to have turned around and said quietly, "I'm sorry to have to ask you to stop talking, but we cannot hear this probably very interesting lecture."

An Orphan Bride

Dear Mrs. Post: A young woman in her early twenties is going to be married soon for the first time. Her parents are not living and she and an older sister live together in a two-room apartment. Would it be proper for the bride-to-be to accept the invitation of her fiancé's mother to have the wedding and reception at her house, which is quite large and very lovely. Answer: Under these exceptional circumstances, it will be quite all right for the bride-to-be to accept the invitation of her mother-in-law-soon-to-be and have the wedding at her house.

Engagement Present for Fiance
Dear Mrs. Post: It seems to be quite common these days for a girl who becomes engaged to give her fiancé a gift, such as a wristwatch, ring, etc. Is there any set rule on this matter and what do you think about it. Answer: Although a gift from her to him has never been unusual especially when she is very well off, it is not a general custom.

Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. Her leaflet E-27, "Afternoon Tea," includes full details for the preparation and serving. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to Dept. E.P. in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Kenmore Fire Damage $150,000

Buffalo, N. Y., March 19 (AP)—A roaring, three-alarm fire destroyed a two-and-a-half story building in suburban Kenmore over the weekend causing damage estimated at $150,000.

The Brown Auto Sales and Brown Appliance Store and two apartments were in the frame and brick building. Cause of the blaze late Saturday night was still undetermined.

Two firemen were treated at the scene for smoke inhalation. Residents of the apartments were away at the time of the fire.

The building was located on Delaware avenue, a few blocks north of the city line.

Maxwell Brown, owner of the business establishments, estimated the damage.

Negro, White Episcopal Churches Plan Merger

Chicago, March 19 (AP)—Two Episcopal congregations, one Negro, the other white, have announced plans to merge the first Sunday after Easter.

The Rev. Kenneth Curry, rector of the Negro St. Simon the Cyrenian Episcopal Church, said yesterday "the action was taken for the good of the church."

"We felt it would be more sensible for the two congregations to worship together at the same church," he said. The St. Simon Church will be closed after the merger with the Church of the Holy Communion. Both churches are in suburban Maywood.

The decision to abandon the St. Simon Church was made by the Rt. Rev. Gerald Francis Burdill, bishop of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago, following a recommendation of the Diocesan council.

Editors Oppose Barring Public At Zone Appeals

Utica, March 19 (AP)—The New York State Society of Newspaper Editors has expressed its opposition to two bills that would permit town and village zoning boards of appeal to bar the public and press from meetings.

Telegrams signed by Charles A. King III, managing editor of the Utica Observer-Dispatch and chairman of the society's Friends of the Free Press committee, were sent yesterday to Republican and Democratic leaders in the Legislature.

Amendments which were introduced last week to answer earlier criticisms of the bills were labeled "unsatisfactory."

Under present law, all meetings of the town and village zoning boards must be open to the public.

The original bills before the Legislature would permit boards to meet in private except at formal hearings when zoning matters are first introduced.

The amendments soften the impact and would allow the boards to bar the press and public only at "executive" sessions.

"Officials could declare any meeting an executive session if they so chose, thus infringing on the people's right to know," the editors' telegrams said. "This is simply another effort to run the public's business in private. It must be repudiated at once."

Tool Maker Dies

Baltimore, March 19 (AP)—Alonzo Galloway Decker, 72-year-old founder and head of a firm which had much to do with spawning the "Do-it-Yourself" craze, died Sunday. He was chairman of the board and president of Black and Decker Mfg. Co., the world's largest maker of portable machine tools. Decker suffered a cerebral hemorrhage Friday while talking with a visitor in his offices at the company's Towson plant. He died in Union Memorial Hospital. During the twenties, Decker and S. Duncan Black each put $600 into a tool manufacturing firm which employed seven men on the rented second floor of a garage.

Last year, the firm had consolidated net sales of $43,328,000. It has 4,000 employees, plants in Towson and Hampstead, Md., and wholly-owned subsidiaries in England, Canada, Australia, Mexico, Brazil and the Union of South Africa.

Faherty on List

Washington, March 19 (AP)—The FBI today puts James Ignatius Faherty, alleged Brink's robber, on its list of "10 most wanted men." He is one of two men still at large of the group which has been formally charged at Boston with looting a Brink's money transfer station there of $1,218,211 in cash and $1,557,183 in checks and securities in January 1950. The FBI in January of this year announced "solution" of that crime. At that time it arrested six alleged members of the gang, placed detainees against two others already in prison for other offenses, announced one other had died and listed Faherty and Thomas F. Richardson, 48-year-old Boston longshoreman, as fugitives.

Check Is Made On Shady Deals For Elderly Folk

Albany, N. Y., March 19 (AP)—A special legislative committee has charged "a few shady individuals and concerns" with taking advantage of elderly persons.

Sen. Thomas C. Desmond, chairman of the joint legislative committee on problems of the aging, last night issued a statement accompanying a report to Gov. Harriman and the Legislature.

"OUR COMMITTEE finds that, in buying, the fields in which the elderly should be especially wary are: Health and life insurance policies, vitamin preparations, retirement homes, medical equipment or devices and special foods, he said.

The report charged "a few shady individuals and concerns have seized upon the fears of the elderly about their health, their loneliness, the availability of pension funds and the rapid growth in the number of elderly to pluck the old-age market."

The Newburgh Republican said many "false and misleading" claims were made for many drugs sold for and labeled as cures or successful treatments of conditions ranging from strokes and cancer to lack of "vim."

THE COMMITTEE recommended that state agencies "take special note of the need for protecting the interests of the aged consumer."

It also recommended: 1. A nursing home fire-safety law similar to the school fire-safety law enacted in 1954. 2. Authorization to the social welfare department to certify all new nursing homes in advance of opening.

3. That the welfare department redefine and clarify the distinction between various types of sheltered care institutions. 4. That the department be given "a staff adequate to handle properly the inspection of nursing homes."

Phil Silvers Is TV's Top Man

Hollywood, March 19 (AP)—Phil Silvers, the comic Hollywood once had and let go, is television's man of the year today.

The bald, fast-talking Sgt. Bilko took three of TV's top Emmy awards Saturday night for a record breaking sweep.

IT CLIMAXED the first year on television for the Broadway wit, Silvers' awards were for best comedian, best series actor, and his show, for best comedy series. He won in every possible category for which he or his show could have been nominated.

Silvers' runaway, plus double wins by Perry Como, Nanette Fabray and Mary Martin gave New York performers a whopping 17 to 7 margin over Hollywood in top categories.

Miss Fabray, the TV wife of Sid Caesar, won for the best supporting actress and best comedienne. She also won the most applause from star-studded audiences in New York and Hollywood.

ONLY LAST week Caesar announced her departure from his show. She took special pains on the NBC telecast of the awards to thank him.

An NBC executive, close to the split, said neither Caesar nor Miss Fabray wanted to part company. He blamed agents and added, "Caesar would rather have parted with his right arm than lose Nanette, but he was already paying her $5,000 a week when her agents demanded more. It was just a case of economics."

Speeches of the winners were of the usual "I thank my producer, director" variety, but the producer of Lasse, which won for best children's program, thanked everyone but the dog star.

Other top winners: Dinah Shore, best female singer; Lucille Ball, best series actress; Art Carney, best supporting actor; Edward R. Murrow, best news commentator; Omnibus, best documentary; "The $64,000 Question," best audience participation series; Disneyland, best action series; Ed Sullivan, best variety series; Hit Parade, best music series; Producers' Showcase, best dramatic series.

Need Good Answer

New York, March 19 (AP)—One question raised in Russian minds by Nikita Khrushchev's denunciation of Stalin is what the present Communist boss and his Kremlin colleagues were doing while Stalin terrorized the nation. The political future of the Soviet Union depends on the skill with which they answer this—and on the ultimate conclusion which Soviet citizens reach. Khrushchev has already made an effort to sidestep this question by declaring that he and Stalin's other subordinates were in fear of their lives. He says they never knew where the next blow was going to fall, never knew when they went in to see Stalin whether they'd come out alive.

End Red Visit

Moscow, March 19 (AP)—A delegation of visiting American Protestant churchmen left for Leningrad today on the windup of their 10-day visit to the Soviet Union. The 10 Americans set out after attending midnight Lenten services in Moscow's Russian Orthodox Yelisevsky Cathedral. Patriarch Alexei, head of the church in Russia, presided at the service. Alexei preached a sermon on forgiveness. He did not mention the American visitors. After the service the congregation filed past the visiting clergyman to kiss their hands and thank them for their visit.

Sending Money Back

Lincoln, Neb., March 19 (AP)—The $2,500 which oil company attorney John M. Neff handed over to the Nebraska Republican party last fall was making a return trip today. The state GOP finance and budget committee voted unanimously yesterday to return the contribution to Neff, central figure in the U. S. Senate's recent investigation of lobbying in connection with a natural gas bill since vetoed by President Eisenhower. A brief resolution, introduced by Nebraska Republican Chairman William W. Spear, listed no reasons for the action. It noted, however, that "the facts with relation to (the contribution) were unknown at the time" it was received.

To Visit Capitals

Amman, Jordan, March 19 (AP)—Jordan's King Hussein announced today he plans to visit the capitals of Egypt, Syria and Saudi Arabia soon. But he denied he plans to put his kingdom in either of the Arab blocs. Hussein said in an interview with the newspaper Addifa that his conference last week with his cousin, King Faisal of Iraq, was a "brotherly meeting." He asserted it was not intended as taking sides in the rivalry for Arab allegiance between the Egyptian-Syrian-Arabia league and the western-sponsored Baghdad Pact Alliance, of which Iraq is a member. Hussein said his country seeks Arab unity, and hence wants the confidence of all the Arab states.

President Snowbound

Gettysburg, Pa., March 19 (AP)—The freak winter storm which hit the northeast kept President Eisenhower snowbound at his farm near here. Giving up any thought of driving back to the capital last night, Eisenhower delayed until this morning a decision on when to return. The highways were slushy or icy, and many motorists were stranded. Eisenhower drove here Friday to spend the weekend.

Girl Scout Cook-Out Inspired Tangy Ham Rolls

TANGY HAM ROLLS, topped with a hot mustard sauce, have a place in family meals as well as in cook-outs, where they started.

BY GAYNOR MADDOX

NEA Food and Markets Editor Teen-age Anne Slattery, of Pomfret, Conn., learned to make tangy ham rolls on Girl Scout cook-outs. She perfected them at home and is always proud to prepare this ham and rice dish for her family. Says it's fun to show off her "culinary prowess."

Anne's special dish is hearty and full of flavor. Yet it is easy to make as it uses packaged precooked rice and ready-cooked boiled ham.

Tangy Ham Rolls (Makes 4 servings)

One and one-third cups (5-ounce package) packaged precooked rice, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 1/2 cups boiling water, 3/4 cup tart red jelly, 1/2 cup prepared mustard (about), 1/2 cup finely chopped parsley, 8 slices boiled ham.

Add rice and salt to boiling water in saucepan. Mix just to moisten all rice. Cover and remove from heat. Let stand 13 minutes. Meanwhile, heat jelly and mustard in saucepan over medium heat, stirring until blended. Add parsley to the rice, mixing lightly with a fork. Place a scant 1/2 cup of rice mixture on each ham slice. Roll up and arrange in baking dish. Pour hot mustard sauce over rolls. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) 10 minutes.

Marshmallow Raisin Rice Pudding (Makes about 3 cups or 4-6 servings)

Two-thirds cup packaged precooked rice, 3 cups milk, 1/4 cup seedless raisins, 1/4 cup firmly packed brown sugar, 1 tablespoon butter, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 6 marshmallows, cut in eighths. Combine rice, milk and raisins in a large saucepan. Bring to a boil and continue boiling gently, loosely covered, until milk is almost absorbed—about 15 minutes; fluff rice occasionally with a fork. Remove from heat and add brown sugar, butter, salt and marshmallows, mixing lightly with a fork. Serve warm, with cream, if desired.

TOMORROW'S DINNER:

Split pea soup, croquettes, tangy ham rolls, buttered broccoli, soft rolls, butter or margarine, apple pie, cheese, coffee, tea, milk.

Work Week Cut To 40 Hours for 33,000 State Jobs

Albany, N. Y., March 19 (AP)—Gov. Harriman signed a batch of new bills over the weekend, foremost among them a bill reducing the work week of approximately 33,000 state employees who now work more than 40 hours a week.

He also approved a measure authorizing the state to turn over to Tompkins county the Herman E. Biggs Memorial Tuberculosis Hospital in Ithaca.

THE BILL affecting about 33,000 state employees will cut back their work week beginning April 1, the start of the state's new fiscal year.

About 4,000 employees now working 44 hours a week will be placed on a 40-hour week and about 29,000 now working 48 hours a week will drop back to 44 hours. No employee's pay will be reduced as a result of the change.

Harriman said the transfer of the Biggs hospital would mean "a substantial saving of money" for both the county and the state.

The State Health Department has supported the legislation, asserting that a steady decline in the number of TV patients made it impractical to continue operating the hospital.

ADJACENT counties have opposed the transfer as a "give-away."

Tompkins county will not have to pay for the hospital, which it plans to convert to a general hospital.

The governor also signed a bill that authorizes the State Department of Mental Hygiene to acquire property in the Bronx that will become part of the site of a "badly-needed mental hospital."

Another bill he signed continues a law which has been on the books for several years by providing for 1,200 state war service scholarships for veterans at $350 a year for four years.

Also approved was a bill continuing for a year the temporary State Commission on Rents.

The governor also put his signature to a measure which provides for annexing part of the town of Corning to the village of South Corning to the city of Corning, subject to the consent of the city.

Dies in Closet

San Marino, Calif., March 19 (AP)—A wife who often hid in closets died in one. A relative yesterday found the body of Mrs. Dorothy J. Heller, 43, in the closet of the sewing room in her mansion in this Los Angeles suburb. She had gone there to hide after an argument at noon on Saturday, police said, and apparently died of a heart attack. Her husband is Alfonso H. Heller, 62, wealthy oilman and rancher. He told officers his wife hid in closets after disagreements.

Screen Writer Dies

Hollywood, March 19 (AP)—Benjamin F. (Barney) Glazer, winner of two academy awards for screen plays, is dead at 68. Retired since a heart attack 10 years ago, he died yesterday of heart disease. Once one of Hollywood's highest paid writers, he also produced movies and, earlier in his career, was a Broadway playwright. He won Oscars for "Seventh Heaven" in 1928 and "Arise My Love" in 1940. He also did screenplays for "A Farewell to Arms," "Tortilla Flat," "Flesh and the Devil" and "Song of My Heart," the latter his last.

Fulfill Wish

Taipei, Formosa, March 19 (AP)—The skipper of a Chinese Nationalist merchantman went to a movie theatre in Taipei last night with his wife and a portrait of his 7-year-old son. Capt. Ou Chun-kun placed the portrait on a seat between himself and his wife, facing the screen. His son, before having a tonsillectomy, had asked if he could see "The Tall Man." The boy died of complications following the operation. His parents chose their own way of fulfilling his wish.

Averages 22 Points a Game

Dick Bezemer Heads Rollins Cage Scoring With 440 Points

DICK BEZEMER

Another former Kingston High School basketball great has been a stickout performer for his alma mater. This time it's Dick Bezemer, a '54 graduate of the Maroon and All-DUSO performer.

For the second straight season, Bezemer paced Rollins College of Winter Park, Fla., in every scoring department. The 6-5 operative was the only shining light in the Tars' lackluster 4-16 campaign.

As a sophomore, Dick poured through 440 points, while playing in every game, for a scintillating 22-point average. Last season, as a frosh, he registered 434 points in 26 games for a 16.7 mark, giving him 874 points in two years of collegiate basketball.

BEZEMER'S BEST night of the season was Jan. 24 against Florida Southern when he sank 20 of 28 field goals and nine of 13 free throws for 49 points. This marked one of the top performances ever by a small college player.

His point average could well have been three to five points higher had he not been slowed by influenza for several weeks in January, reports Dick Halde-man, sports publicity director for Rollins. After shaking off the illness, Bezemer's average started to climb. Up until mid-season, he was averaging approximately 17 points a game.

HE BEGAN the second half of the season by scoring 28 against Tampa, 49 at the expense of Southern, 25 versus Miami, 30 against Mercer and 32 and 31 in games with Stetson.

Kalaka, Hopper Pace Fallsmen to Tourney Decision

Habig Unloads 33

As Port Wins, 79-65

Art Kalaka, former NYU footballer, and center Jim Hopper threw in 33 and 29 points respectively as the Wappingers Falls PBA whipped the highly regarded Stamford (Conn.) Knights of Columbus, 106-92, in the feature game of the Kingston Basketball Tournament last night at the municipal auditorium.

In the twin bill opener, Culver Motors of Port Jervis finished fast to turn back Reddy's Kilowatts of Newburgh, 79-65, in the tourney's third night of opening round action.

KALAKA LOOPED in 12 field goals and added nine foul tosses for his total, while Hopper pitched in nine from the floor and 11 from the charity stripe. Clem Capara contributed 12 and George Lavalle 10 in the winning cause.

The Fallsmen came within four points of tying the game record set by the Monticello Vets last year in earning the decision. A big 29-point last quarter sewed up the game after the K of C had drawn within four points of tying at the end of three quarters, 77-73.

George Nizolek and Tom Di-neen topped the New Englanders' scoring with 24 and 22 points. Jack Robie hit 17.

PLAYER-COACH Bob Habig led the boys from Port to their verdict with a 33-point effort. Hal Cronk collected 17 and the Porters thin-man, John Schauer, 16.

Jerry Jugins and George Casey almost carried the entire scoring load for the Hill City five. Jugins poured through 32 points for runner-up honors and Casey 15.

Port stayed in front through every quarter break. They eased into an 18-14 lead and kept on top at halftime 31-29. The three quarter score read, 59-53.

KREPP SETS 2 RECORDS

Eleven Marks Beaten

In College Swim Meet

Ithaca, March 19 (AP)—The eastern collegiate swimming championships have wound up with two America, two NCAA and seven meet records bettered.

Charles Krepp, 21, of Baltimore, a North Carolina junior, led the onslaught by winning the 100-yard backstroke and 200-yard individual medley races Saturday night.

HIS WINNING time in the individual medley relay was 2:09.7, under the recognized 2:19.0 American record, but 1.5 seconds slower than the 2:08.2 now before the NCAA records committee. His backstroke time was 58.8.

On Friday night Krepp won the 200-yard backstroke in 2:07, three tenths of a second below the mark set in 1953 by Dick Thoman of Yale.

Dick Faden, a North Carolina State sophomore from Woonsocket, R. I., swam the fastest 200-yard breaststroke race by an American when he won the event in 2:19.9 Saturday night. He was 25 seconds under the recognized American record and seven-tenths under the best NCAA applied-for time.

FADGEN BEAT Dave Hawkins of Harvard Friday night in the 200-yard butterfly in 2:13.2, six-tenths of a second under Hawkins' meet record set last year.

Rex Aubrey from Australia, a Yale junior, set a meet record for the 100-yard freestyle Saturday night with a time of 49.5. Aubrey beat out H. Cou-teau Dyer of Harvard to win the 50-yard freestyle Friday night. Both Aubrey's final and Dyer's earlier qualifying times of 22.3 tied the meet record.

FRANK KNIGHT of Army won the three-meter diving Saturday night while George Breen of Cortland added the 440-yard freestyle crown to the 1,500-meter title he won Thursday in the fastest time ever recorded, 17:44.5 for a short (25-yard) course.

HARVARD'S 400-yard freestyle relay team won the title from Yale Friday night with a time of 3:26.1, bettering a mark of 3:27.0 set in 1955 by the Eli.

NCAA Survivors Pointing For Semi-Final Round Duels

(By The Associated Press)

The San Francisco Dons, riding a 53-game winning streak, and three other of the nation's ranked college teams pointed for the semi-finals of the NCAA's national championships today as the Amateur Athletic Union moved into basketball's post season title picture with New York's National Invitation Tournament.

The Dons, defending champions and the nation's No. 1 ranked team with a string of 27 victories this year, tangle with Southern

Coast Teenager Captures Crown In Table Tennis

(By The Associated Press)

White Plains, N. Y., March 19

(AP)—Erwin Klein, 17-year-old left-handed star from Los Angeles, won the men's singles title of the 26th National Open Table

Tennis championships early today with a 19-21, 18-21-19, 22-20,

21-13 victory over Bernard Bukiet of Cleveland.

Klein, who used the new sponge rubber racket, is the youngest player to win the men's title since Sol Schiff of New York captured it in 1934 at the age of 16. He also is the first

in 1937 to win the big title.

EARLIER in the night, he won the National Junior Singles

by trouncing Norbert Van de

Walle of Chicago 21-14, 21-14,

21-9. He also shared the men's doubles title with Richard Berg-mann of London as they defeated Bobby Guisakoff and Harry

Hirschowitz of New York 21-19,

21-15, 17-21, 21-16.

Leah Neuberger of New York won the women's singles for the seventh time by trouncing Mil-fred Shahian of Chicago 21-7,

21-14, 21-12 and then teamed with her to win the women's doubles. They defeated Lona

Flam and Pauline Robinson of

New York 19-21, 24-22, 19-21,

21-16, 21-19.

THE MIXED double crown

went to Schiff and Mrs. Neuberger, who defeated Bukiet and Miss Robinson 16-21, 21-19, 21-15, 20-22, 21-12.

Despite a heavy snowstorm, a crowd of 300 turned out for the matches at the Westchester county center and stayed until the matches ended at nearly 2

Fetchick Takes St. Pete Open In Playoff Round

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 19 (AP)—Mike Fetchick, Lionel Hebert, Billy Maxwell, Ernie Vossler and others of the "lesser knowns" of golf are bearing down on the "old guard" these days.

Fetchick, as 33-year-old from Mahopac, N. Y., who is making his third circuit swing, won the St. Petersburg Open yesterday in a sudden death playoff with Hebert, 28-year-old from Erie, Pa., after both carded 275s for the regulation 72 holes.

MAXWELL, who calls Odesa, Tex., home, finished third at 276 after leading for two rounds and Vossler, a 25-year-old master plumber from Fort Worth, Texas, tied for fourth with Ted Kroll at 277.

Although Kroll of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., is no newcomer to the circuit, this is the first year he has made a big splash, capturing two tournaments and leading the money winners.

A tie for sixth at 278 by Cary Middlecoff of Dallas, pre-tourney favorite and defending champion, and Ed Furgol, the 1954 National Open champion, was the best showing by the "old guard."

FETCHICK AND Furgol had 69s in the final round, Hebert and Kroll 70s, Vossler and Middlecoff 71s and Maxwell a 72. The 6,489 yard Lakewood Country Club course has a par of 36-36-72.

The consistent Fetchick had rounds of 69-69-68-69, carding 33s on the back nine three of the four days. He was 13 under par.

Dulles Believes Economic Policy in Need of Change

Tokyo, March 19 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles headed home from his 10-nation Asian tour today, reportedly convinced the United States needs a "more flexible" foreign economic policy to counter the new Communist drive.

Dulles took off by plane for Honolulu en route to Washington.

to report to President Eisenhower and the American people on his swing through south Asia and the Far East.

A high source said Dulles concluded from his conferences in the Asian capitals that U. S. economic policy needed changing, but he did not specify what the secretary had in mind.

The informant indicated Dulles did not envisage relaxation of the free world's restrictions on trade with Red China. But Japanese Foreign Minister Mamoru Shigemitsu, who conferred with Dulles, said the secretary expressed sympathy with Japan's need for more trade and agreed the United States would not oppose Japanese trade with Peiping within "the set scope."

A source close to Dulles' entire tour said no basic change in American policy is anticipated. He said the American secretary found Asian leaders skeptical of the objectives behind Soviet offers of economic aid.

Shigemitsu said Dulles made two main points in his talk with the Japanese foreign minister and Premier Ichiro Hatoyama:

1. The free world can check any future Communist military aggression.

2. The free world must make fresh efforts to counter the Red economic and cultural offensive abroad.

Before leaving Tokyo, Dulles conferred with America's ambassadors and diplomatic officials from 14 Asian nations. He reportedly briefed them on what he learned during his talks in the capitals of Pakistan, India, Ceylon, Indonesia, Thailand, South Viet Nam, Formosa, South Korea, Japan and the Philippines.

Dulles told the people of Communist North Korea last night that their liberation from Red rule "continues to be a firm goal of the American nation."

The secretary's message was broadcast in the Korean language. Repeated throughout the night, it was beamed to North Korea by the United Nations command's psychological warfare radio outlet.

space which could not be found locally and also the desire of the concern to own its own property.

While additional floor space is required now, Mr. Parker said, there was no immediate plan to increase the number of employees and the present employees will be retained.

Dixon & Rippel, Inc., of which Henry H. Parker is president, and Mrs. Marie Parker, vice-president and secretary, manufacture a line of industrial brushes for jewelers, silversmiths, electrotypers and various specialized lines.

At one time the company also manufactured paint brushes but that line was discontinued some time ago and the company devoted its time to specialized lines.

In addition to the line of brushes which are manufactured by the company, the concern is distributors for the Brush Division of Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, in the distribution of paint brushes.

Mr. and Mrs. Parker plan to retain their residence here at 7 Burgevin street.

Bird Food Appeal

West Nyack, N. Y., March 19 (AP)—An Audubon Society official appealed today for help for thousands of prematurely arrived migratory birds struggling to survive in the deep snow. Mrs. William G. Irving, director of the Rockland county society, asked that suet or other foods be placed on the leeward side of trees or houses, so drifting snow would not cover up the supplies. The snow is 20 inches deep in the area.

Urban Renewal

and a grant of $150,000 provided therein for urban development, plus the value of the block already owned by the city, an urban renewal plan for the downtown section of the city can be undertaken."

"The two federal requirements are these: adequate housing and a basis for financing."

"The cash value mentioned can be augmented by Federal funds to nearly $600,000.00. Without this part of the program where does the Downtown Business Men's Association expect the city to get the money?"

"THEIR NEWSPAPER article leads to a belief that the federal plan will change their 'deplorable conditions over night and without cost to the city. If that is so they are due for a rude awakening."

"The downtown businessmen advertised their meeting as one to explain what an urban plan would do. There is no evidence that any qualified person was present to explain such a program. There is evidence that people opposed to public housing were there to express their opposition. They are so thoroughly opposed to the principle of public housing they would leave no stone unturned to defeat it. If it is necessary to kill urban renewal to accomplish their purpose they would do so."

"Mr. Seitz, president of the association was quoted as being opposed to public housing. Mr. Seitz informed me that his association would favor public housing if it was built in the sixth ward. When informed the law would not permit it, he then suggested the use of Block Park. When informed that Block Park was subject to flood conditions

Hudson River Group Asks Highway Reroute

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., March 19 (AP)—The Hudson River Conservation Society has appealed for a change in the proposed route of a highway project which it says threatens destruction of three villages.

The society asked the Legislature and Gov. Averell Harriman's administration yesterday to take a stand against the route of the link which would connect the New York State Thruway with the New Jersey Turnpike.

The society sent a letter to Harriman, legislative leaders and the Thruway Authority asking them "to run the connecting link west of Highland Mountain, through open country, instead of through Grand View, Piermont and Sparkill."

Malenkov Visits Britain's Top Atomic Plant

London, March 19 (AP)—Britain opened her top atomic energy research plant to former Soviet Premier Georgi Malenkov today. But she made American correspondents and other newsmen wait outside.

"You will be allowed to see Dido, the heavy water pile, but you can see nothing else," a British official told newsmen at the Harwell plant. "We are sorry, but security rules are security rules."

Kim Bellavia, correspondent for the Soviet news agency Tass, laughed in the official's face.

"YOU AMAZE ME," he said. "You let these Russian scientists in. Do you think they understand less about atomic secrets than American correspondents?"

Malenkov, now Soviet minister for power stations, got up early to make the 80-mile ride from London to Harwell.

He was joined here by other members of the visiting Soviet delegation. They had spent the night at Windsor after sightseeing in the town steeped in royal traditions.

MALENKOV and his party were ushered through the entire plant at Harwell. British officials gave no indication what was hidden—anything—from the Russians.

Malenkov and his aides hurriedly scribbled notes as Sir John Cockcroft, Britain's atomic energy director, guided them through the plant. Malenkov's two personal bodyguards went with him.

Kefauver Hopes To Beat Adlai In Minnesota

Minneapolis, March 19 (AP)—Minnesota reached the eve of its crucial presidential primary today with Sen. Estes Kefauver scenting and hoping for a come-from-behind victory over Adlai E. Stevenson.

The White House ambitions of one Democrat or the other will soar or sink with the outcome of tomorrow's balloting.

As Kefauver calls it, 30 per cent of the votes will represent a victory for him. He told a news conference last night that "of course, I am going to do much better than that."

HE SAID, too, he expects to top Stevenson in four or five of the state's nine congressional districts. If he does, he will clinch at least 8 or 10 of Minnesota's 30 votes at the Democratic National Convention in August.

In the Stevenson camp, signs of concern and hedging have appeared.

Gov. Orville Freeman lowered his forecast of a 3-1 margin for Stevenson to "somewhere between 2 and 3 to 1" although he held to his prediction that Kefauver won't get a single convention delegate.

The governor spoke from New York on a television program (NBC, Meet The Press).

THE LOSS of any delegates would be a setback for Stevenson, he said, but:

"Whether it would be a serious one is problematical. . . . I think Gov. Stevenson is going to be the nominee regardless of what happens in Minnesota."

Stevenson is in the paradoxical position of being able to win on the basis of ballot figures alone and still turn up as something of a loser. For this is one he ought to win impressively if he hopes to use a Minnesota showing to enhance his political fortunes.

BEHIND HIM is the state's Democratic organization and high command—Freeman and Sen. Hubert Humphrey included. And in this second primary of 1956 the former Illinois governor and the Tennessee senator are formal, official competitors for the first time—the on the ballot as well as in the pre-election campaigning.

When Kefauver raked in all eight convention votes in the New Hampshire primary last week, Stevenson wasn't on the ballot. Nor did he campaign in the state. A slate of delegates "favorable" to him was entered without his formal assent or active support.

THIS TIME there will be a more clearly defined showdown. President Eisenhower has it all his own way in the Republican primary. Sen. William F. Knowland was entered before Eisenhower announced for a second term. The Californian probably will get a smattering of votes, although he isn't working for them and is backing the President.

Republican strategists are concentrating on (1) a hefty vote to prove that plenty of Minnesotans still like Ike and (2) keeping the party faithful from crossing over into the Democratic primary to try to undercut Stevenson and the Democratic state organization.

Bromfield, Pulitzer Author, Dies at 59

Columbus, Ohio, March 19 (AP)—Louis Bromfield, not Pulitzer prize winning author, newspaper columnist and militant advocate of soil conservation, died last night in University Hospital here. He was 59.

Bromfield's physician said death was due to "kidney and liver" failure caused by a jaundice infection. Bromfield was admitted to the hospital Feb. 28 suffering from "homologous jaundice."

Friends said Bromfield had been in a coma for the last 24 hours.

Bromfield's literary career, which started with the publication of "The Green Bay Tree," reached its zenith when he was awarded the Pulitzer prize in 1926 for his novel "Early Autumn." It was a story of a Massachusetts Pentland family.

Bromfield traveled widely and some of his more than two score novels reflect the scenes he visited. Many of them also were made into motion pictures.

Bromfield, too, was widely known for his efforts to promote soil-conservation.
